The Road Not Taken

THE ROAD NOT TAKEN

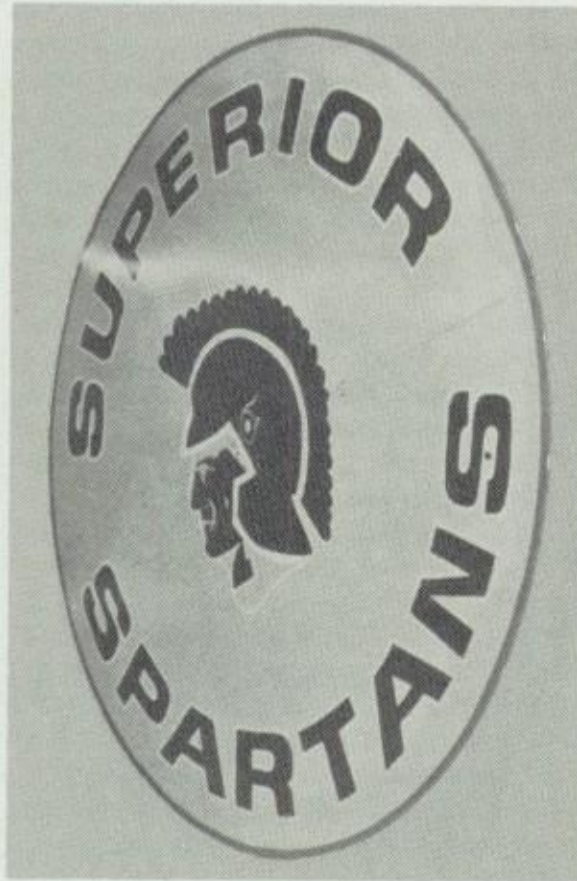

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood,
And sorry I could not travel both
And be one traveler, long I stood
And looked down one as far as I could
To where it bent in the undergrowth;

Then took the other, as just as fair,
And having perhaps the better claim,
Because it was grassy and wanted wear;
Though as for that the passing there
Had worn them really about the same,

And both that morning equally lay
In leaves no step had trodden black.
Oh, I kept the first for another day!
Yet knowing how way leads on to way,
Doubted if I should ever come back.

I shall be telling this with a sigh
Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads diverged in a wood, and I—
Took the one less traveled by
And that has made all the difference.

Volume 17

Juniors and Seniors may recognize this poem written by Robert Frost as a poem studied during 11th grade American Literature.

Sophomores can still anticipate studying this next year. But more than just being a poem studied in class, it is a poem about making decisions.

These decisions might be important or minor; they might be simple or tough; they might be taken seriously or lightly.

Above all, they are decisions that really can make all the difference.

dedication

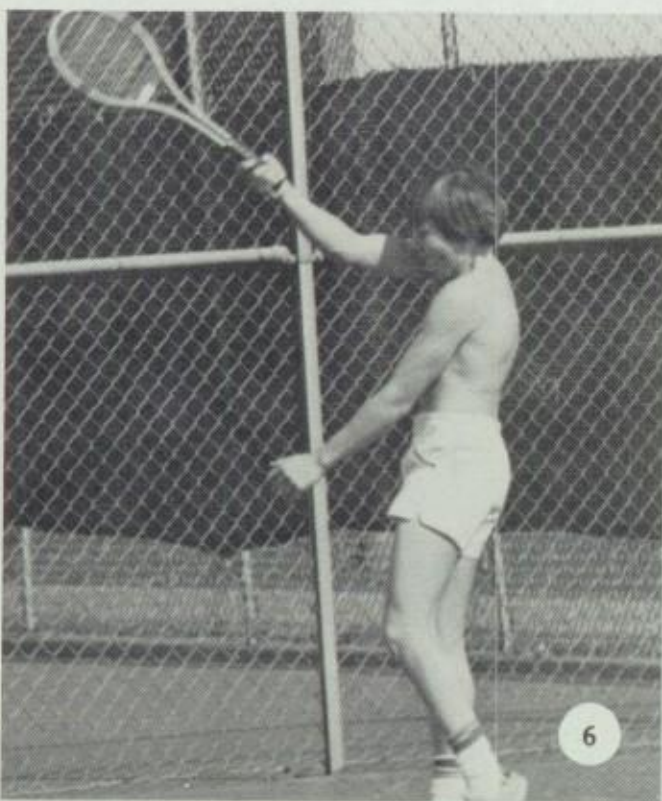

When Sophomores enter Senior High, they are seen by their upperclassmen as the "silly sophomores," and are immortalized as such.

As they grow into their junior year, students begin to grow and change. At that point, they begin to know what road they will choose.

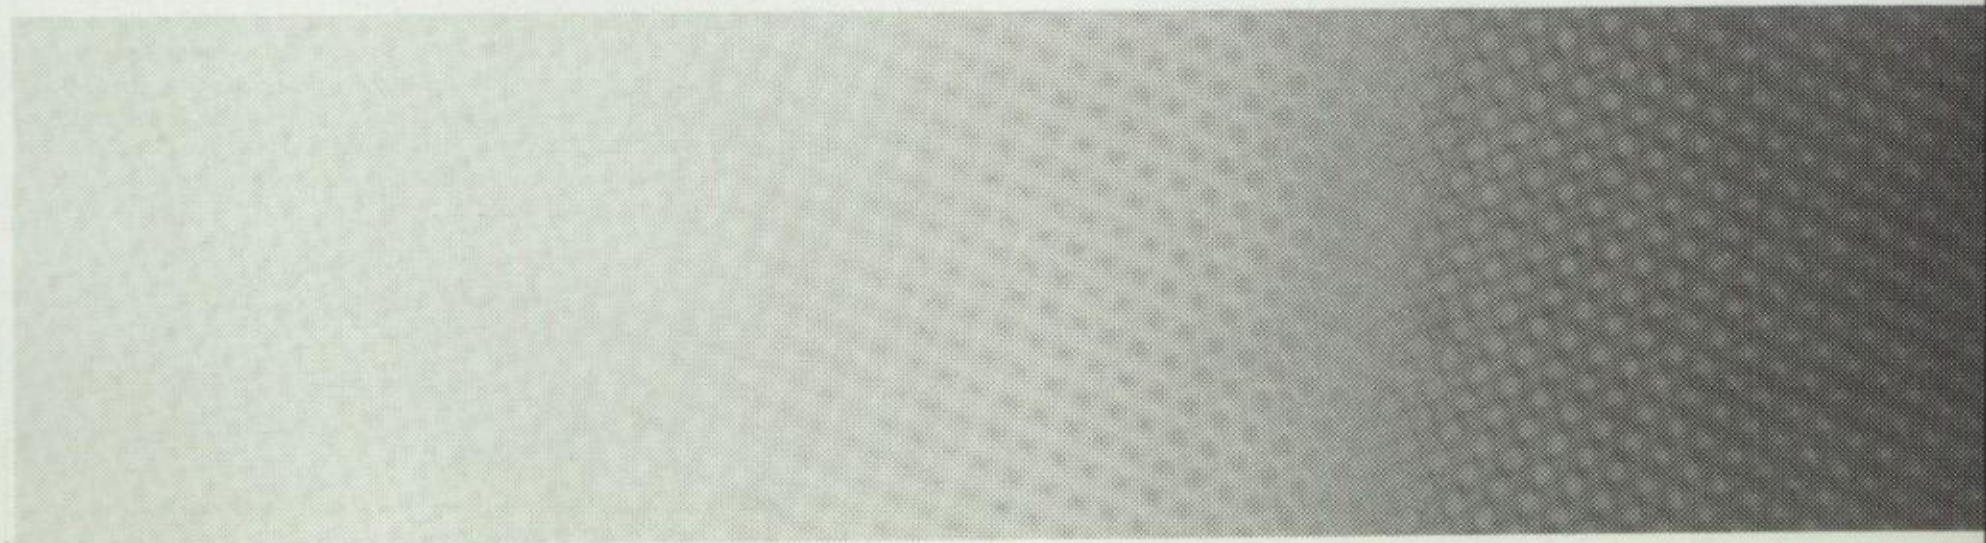

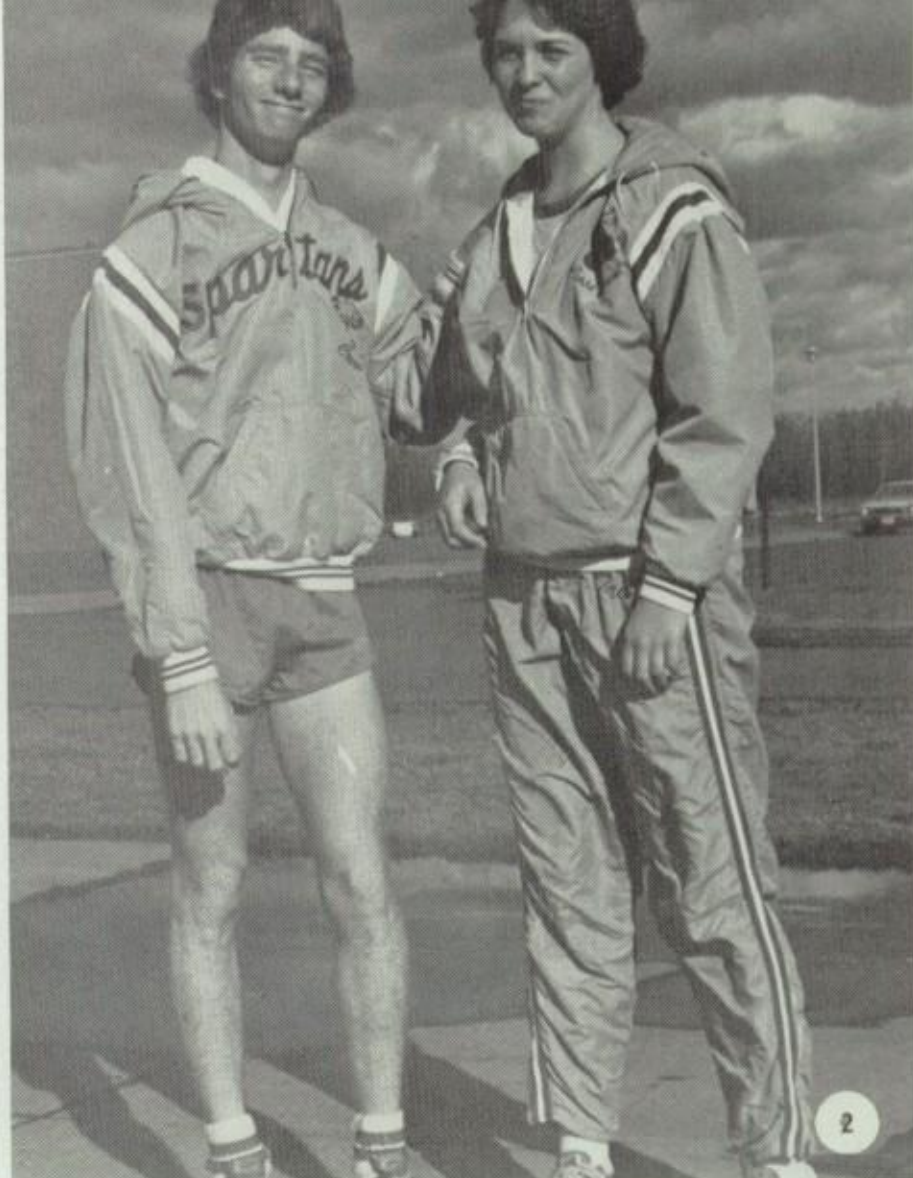

Seniors, however, have chosen what life to live after high school: college, the military careers, or marriage. These students, once silly sophomores and jolly juniors, now mighty seniors, are held almost in awe by the underclassmen. It is to these seniors who have struggled through three tough years of school, that the 1981-82 Lacedaemon is dedicated. Good Luck in Life!

When we enter high school we are bombarded with a myriad of choices from which we must decide.
What kind of classes should I take?
What sports should I become involved in?
What activities should I attend?
What can I do to benefit me?
What can I do that will make all the difference?

1. Mike Hinaus and Pat Murphy washing their golf balls between rounds.
 2. Marty Wiitala and Sue Roubal take time out to pose at the prom.
 3. Jean Lambert helping kids finger paint in the day care center.
 4. Todd Frandsen, Pam Smerud, George Glonek, Kim Sharpe, Brent Millard, and Jim Berg, participants in Badger State.
 5. Yvonne Moyer working in the day care center.
 6. Mark Tomzak working on his tennis.
 7. Kids enjoying themselves in the day care center.

1. Shawn Murray and Denise Groth doing their homework together.
2. Scott Crase and Deann Groth take time out from track practice to pose for a picture.
3. Annette Ronchak, Duane Fonger, Becki Johnson, and Scott Warring at the 1981 prom.
4. Ed Tatarek prepares for a race.
5. Dave Ellison and Craig Martinson take a break from lifting weights.
6. Darla Tollefson and Rhonda Hicks prepare for a song at a game.
7. A typical football practice with Tony Bronson, Dennis Nolan, Ken Aspinwall, and Doug Severin.

Life Is A Road

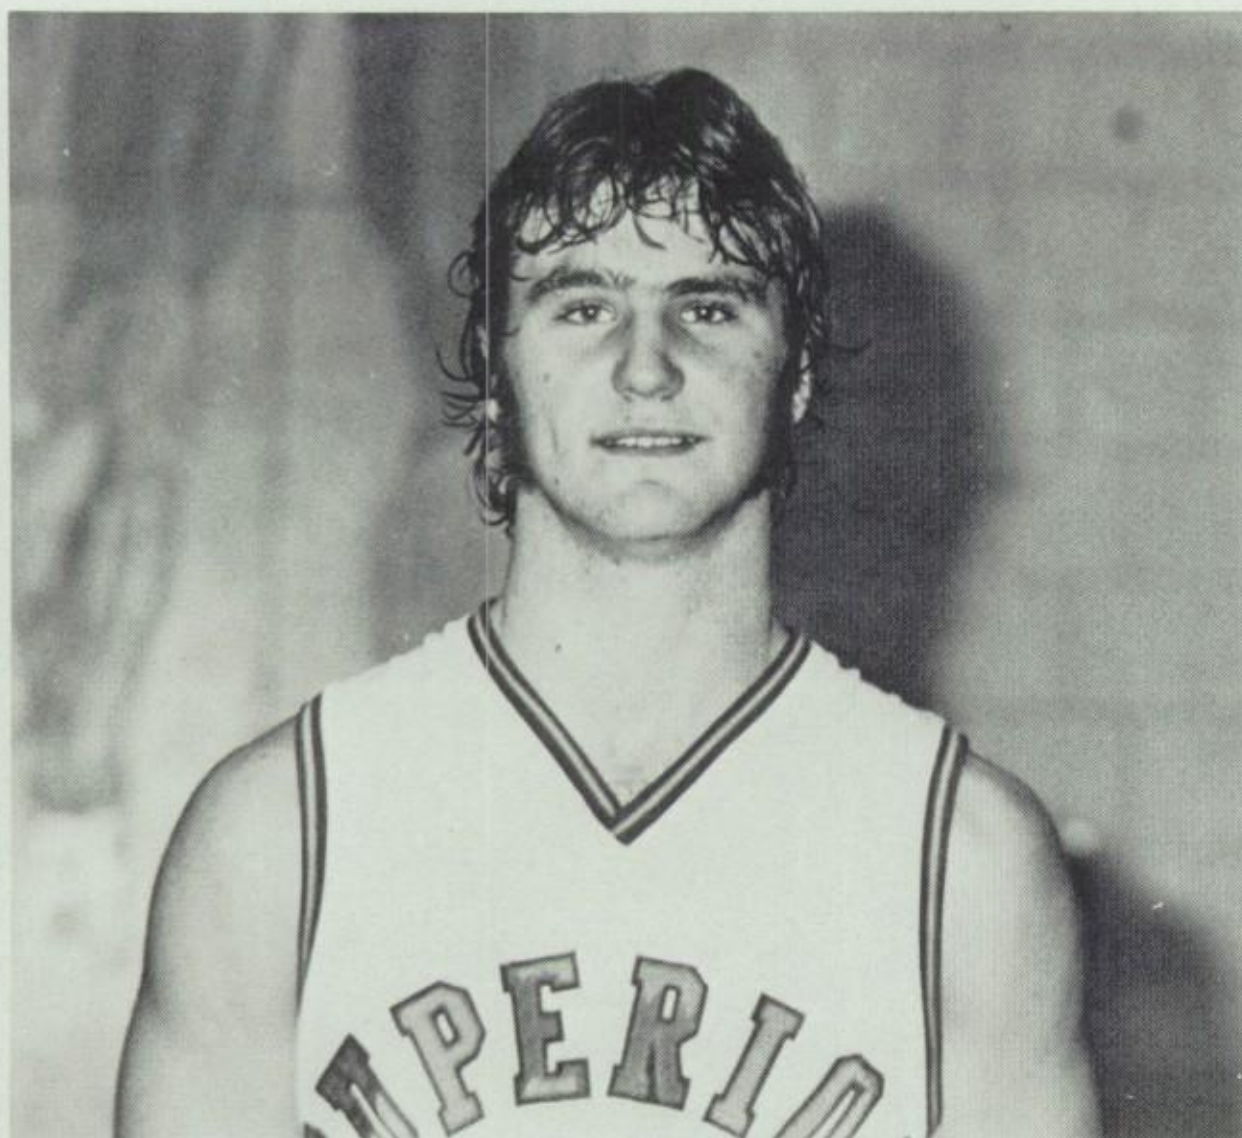

Life is a road that winds among the hills of time. With every turn in the road an old view vanishes, a new view appears. Life is a pilgrimage, a passage through eternity, a journey into the unknown. People are as travelers on a journey.

Some pass quickly beyond the bend in the road that hides them from our view. Some walk beside us all the way. Some seem to creep along, and some pass swiftly as a runner. But life cannot be measured in terms of time, only in terms of living.

When people die they do not cease to be; they only pass beyond human sight.

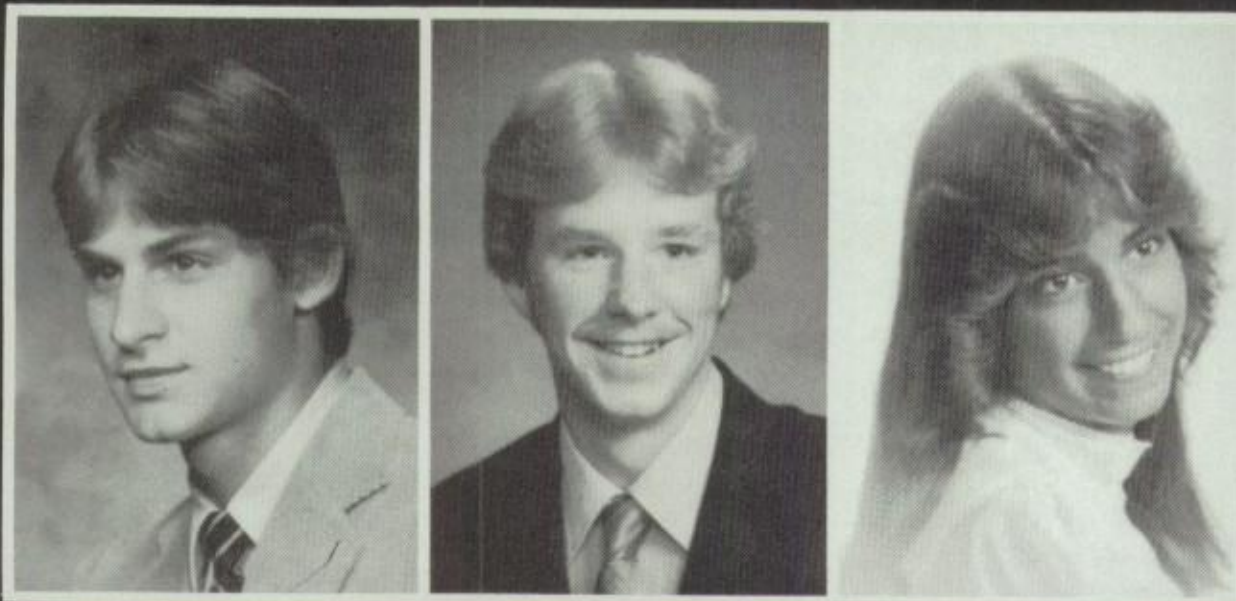

There is a unity beyond the unities of time and place and even thought, a unity that links us as one, just as all the waves are one sea and all the islands one earth. Does not love link us with our friends though they be on the other side of the earth? So those we love may pass beyond the reach of hands, but not outside the heart.

dale harlan schaapveld

We are all saddened with the recent death of Dale Harlan Schaapveld, a member of our teaching staff at Senior High School. For nineteen years he served our youth and touched their lives in the quest for knowledge and understanding.

He was a dedicated professional, giving time and talent to his teaching and the community. His leadership in labor was always tempered with respect for the individual. He shall be missed by his family, friends, students and colleagues.

As a devoted husband and father, he gave first priority to his family. Our deepest sympathy is extended to them.

score board

Now we have completed another year of school. I have made the decisions that affected my high school days and have yet to make decisions about my future — the rest of my life.

The choices I have made may have been simple or complex, daring or assured, slight or important. What's important is that they were my decisions which have affected my life, and have shaped me as a person. These chances I have taken have made all the difference.

1. Steve Eliason has a mouth full of food while construction tech. students spend time at the point cleaning, etc.
2. Lynn Estrella and Bob Gella take time to pose for a picture during the 81' prom "We May Never Pass This Way Again."
3. Student participants show off their posters for a poster contest.
4. Mary Jo Hoivik serves coffee at a teachers' breakfast.
5. Patti Vreeland earns credit during a "day care" week sponsored by the Child Care classes.
6. Christi Willette is caught by surprise while looking for utensils.
7. Gail DeRosia and Kristin Erickson take a break between classes.

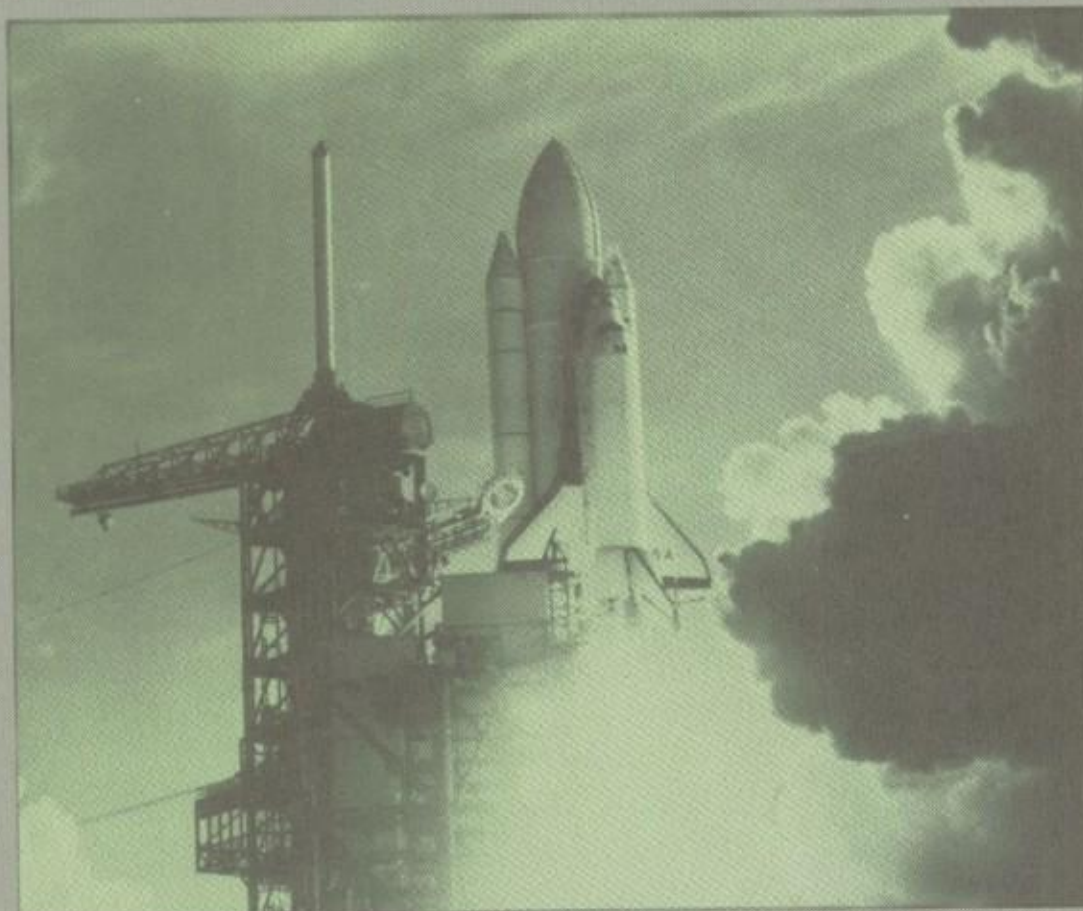

All The Difference

Many Seniors believe graduation is the end of the road, for there is nowhere else to go. But actually it is only a new beginning, opening doors to many new horizons. The decisions you make after graduation, at the end of this road, are going to make all the difference in the world. May the past years spent here assist you in making these decisions and may all of your dreams come true. Most of all, may you reach those shining stars! Good Luck!

Spring
 Spring Fever, The Point, Prom,
 Senior Breakfast, Baseball

Traditionally Spring is a time for young love, Easter, and going outside without a jacket on. We feel trapped in school, anxious for graduation and summer vacation. The Point once again becomes a center for social activity.

Summer
 Lazy days, Warm nights, Road
 Trips, Camping, Tennis

Summer is the time for sunburned skin and sunbleached hair. We feel relaxed, and carefree. Summertime 80' will be long remembered by the graduating class of 81' as their last
 "free" summer.

"Past Days"

Why does the schoolgirl,
With notebook on her desk,
Sit idly watching a beetle
Gather fodder for its nest?

Her mind tends to wander,
Her studies slip away,
As she drifts in sequestered thought
To better, more beautiful days.

Such is one who daydreams;
Though most likely to forget
That moments dwell on wishful thought
Are times they'd soon regret.

Like how the mother, nursing her baby at night,
Curses the infant's cries;
A year or so later, looks in on him sleeping
And yearns to rock him and wipe dry his eyes.

Or the track star who loathed all the sweat and pain,
Complained at his coach's command;
Remembers only support, and cheers from the crowd,
And the beat of his heart as he ran.

The girl with intricate curls in her hair
Once dressed up in Mommy's best clothes
Wishing to be older; now thinks of being young,
With pigtails in pretty pink bows.

And the student who rebelled at instruction —
The teachers, the books, and the rules —
Discovers years later the privilege of youth
And misses those past days of school.

Though we can never return and relive those past days,
(They're but memories to lock deep inside),
We'll not forget all we've learned, and with deepest respect,
In our hearts Senior High will abide.
